HONEST PHYSICIAN

Works with Himself First.

It is a mistake to assume that physiclans are always skeptical as to the curative properties of anything else than drugs.

Indeed, the best doctors are those who seek to heal with as little use of drugs as possible and by the use of correct food and drink. A physician writes from Calif. to tell how he made a well man of himself with Nature's remedy:

"Before I came from Europe, where I was born," he says, "it was my custom to take coffee with milk (cafe au lait) with my morning meal, a small cup (cafe noir) after my dinner and two or three additional small cups at my club during the evening.

"In time nervous symptoms developed, with pains in the cardiac region, and accompanied by great depression of spirits, despondency—in brief, 'the blues!' I at first tired medicines, but got no relief and at last realized that all my troubles were caused by coffee. I thereupon quit its use forthwith, substituting English Breakfast Tea.

"The tea seemed to help me at first, but in time the old distressing symptoms returned, and I quit it also, and tried to use milk for my table bever-age. This I was compelled however to abandon speedily for while it relieved the nervousness somewhat, It brought on constipation. Then by a happy inspiration I was led to try the Postum Food Coffee. This was some months ago and I still use it. I am no longer nervous, nor do I suffer from the pains about the heart, while my 'blues' have left me and life is bright to me once more. I know that leaving off coffee and using Postum healed me, and I make it a rule to advise my patients to use it." Name given by Postum Co, Battle Creek, Mich.

MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

Sixteen-Year-Old Boy's Troubles. Chillicothe attorneys have filed a suit in Richmond on behalf of Grafton Switzer, the son of a farmer living in the northern part of Ray county, in which the plantiff seeks the annulment of his marriage with Miss Eva Stricker. He claims he was coerced into having the ceremony performed. Switzer, who is only 16 years old. says that one day he accompanied F. O. Walters, his father's farmhand and Miss Stricker's brother-in-law, to Cowgill, and on the next morning awoke to find that he had been drugged, and had to walk the floor all night.

"My stomach was in bad shape, and I had smothering sensations. At such times my body seemed bloodless, my hands were like chalk and my face turned yellow. The doctor said I had dyspepsia in the worst form. Then my nerves gave way and I was completely prostrated. I frequently suffered from smothering sensations.

To find that he had been drugged, and that he was in a buggy with Walters and the latter's wife en route to Kansas City. The party reached Kansas City, he says, on July 23. They went to the home of the mother of Mrs. Walters and Miss Stricker, and, Switzer alleges, on July 24 they party went smothering sensations.

"The first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I used quieted my nerves so that I could get a good night's sleep, which was a new experience for me. Before I began to use them I wat a nervous wreck and trembled at the slightest sound. I was so weak that I could get a good night's tricker. Against his will and from fear of bodily injury, Switzer alleges, he was forced to marry Miss Stricker. The ceremony was performed by a conversated himself to be a

> What Imagination Did. Believing that he had been poisoned Horace Clar, a 16-year-old negro of Ferguson, St. Louis county, went into decline from a slight illness and died. Clar had been in the habit of taking the lunches of laborers who are digging trenches for a sewer in Ferguson. About two weeks ago one of the laborers told him he would poison his food if he did not quit it. The next day Clar became sick after he had taken another lunch, and declared that he was poisoned. Although he was only suffering from a slight attack of gastritis, his physician, Dr Brier, could do nothing for him, and he died, insisting that he had been poisoned.

THE PRINCE OF BUTLERS.

His Resourcefulness Saved His Mistress in an Awkward Situation.

The late Thomas Coldwell, the inventor of the lawn mower, was a great admirer of witty and alert persons.

At a dinner in New York Mr. Coldwell said or a famous millionaire:

"This man, through hard luck, once had to work as a butier. He made an excellent butier. Let me give you an instance of the sort of work he did.

"His mistress was giving a dinner party of 12 covers on a certain evening. One of the courses consisted of scalloped oysters in silver shells. The set of silver shells was broken—there were only 11. The mistress, therefore, told the butler that she would not eat any oysters, and thus there would be just enough to go around.

thus there would be just enough to go around.

"The butler, when the oyster course came, placed before the lady one of the shells. To his horror, she did not decline it. Calmly she let it rest before her. If she started to eat it, one guest would be short of oysters. What was the matter with her, anyhow?

"The butler watched her nervously. She took up her fork. She was actually about to plunge it into the dainty shell. Then the man, ever alert and ready, flew to her side and bent over her respectfully:

"Pardon me, madam, he murmured, but you said I was to remind you that the doctor forbade your eating oysterds on any account."

DIDN'T MARRY THE COOK. Luncher in Love with Pie Wanted to Secure the Maker Thereof.

"By gosh! this is fine piz; the kind that mother used to make!" gleefully exclaimed the tall, lank easterner standing before the lunch counter, as he put away his third portion, when the train stopped 15 minutes for refreshments at a little station in the far west. "Let me have another piece of that apple pie, waiter. It's all right, you can bet!" he drawled, with a feeling of deep satisfaction.

After he had disposed of the fourth slice, says the New York Times, the New Englander turned to the waiter and said: "Say, boss, that was the best pie I've eaten since I left home. I swore I'd never get married. But, by gosh! anyone that can make pie like that can be my wife. Bring on the cook, and, by Heavens! I'll marry her."

"Do you mean it?" asked the waiter, with a twinkle in his eye.
"Every word of it," answered the pie enthusiast.

The waiter disappeared into the kitchen.

REMINDED HIM OF HOME. Rough Weather on the Ocean Made Kansan Think He Was Back on the Farm.

A Kansan crossing the Atlantic in rough weather went out on deck when a big gale was blowing. Nobody was in sight except the captain, relates the Kansas City Journal.

"Go below there," the captain shouted. The passenger looked around to see whom he was talking to.

"You mean me?" he yelled back when he saw there was no one else in sight.

"Of course I do; go below," and the captaing came alongside.

"Well. I guess not," protested the Kansan. "I'm up here to see how one of your mountain-high waves and "terrific gales' compare with what we have in Kansas in the way of cyclones. This ain't a patch to what I've seen out our way."

A big wave broke over the deck, sweeping the Kansan aft. They picked him up with a broken leg, a twisted shoulder, a sprained wrist, and his face looked as if it had been dragged backward through a briar patch. When he came to he saw the captain.

Impertinent Poet. "Why." said Mrs. Oldcastle, "did your "Why." said Mrs. Oldeastle, "did your daughter break her engagement to that handsome young poet."

"He insulted us," replied her hostess, as she carelessly ran her tingers through the pages of a $3,500 copy or "Squints and Glances," "In a poem he wrote about her he said she had lambent eyes, and Josiah just wouldn't stand for that, because it was an insinuation about us gettin' rich in the meat business."—Chicago Record-Herald.

In Temptation's Way. "This is the first time you have been to prayer-meeting in a long time," said the pastor of a colored congregation.
"I had to come," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "I needs strength nin. I'se got a job whitewashin a chicken coop an buildin' a fence around a watermelon patch."—Washington Star.
